3B District Court Sobriety Treatment Court

In 2021, the 3B District Court Sobriety Court adapted to change and learned how to operate after the Covid-19 pandemic in 2019 and 2020. The program continued meeting with participants twice a month however now on a virtual platform. Participants will attend in person if there had been missed groups, missed treatment sessions or positive tests since last seen by the judge. Participants in the program appreciate the virtual platform since some have transportation issues and would have to otherwise miss work; this helps alleviate stress.

The 3B District Court Sobriety Court continues to operate as a certified Sobriety Court through the State Court Administrative Office. The Sobriety Court receives Public Act 2 prevention funding for ignition interlock device installations for participants who qualify for a restricted license in Michigan. A 2015 study of ignition interlock devices used in Michigan Sobriety Courts showed the presence of an interlock device, while participating in a court, significantly reduces repeat drunk driving and general criminal offending, even at two years post-admission. The Sobriety Court also receives a Michigan Drug Court Grant to assist with financial assistance for Luke Nofsinger, Defense Counsel, and D. Spencer Price who facilitates a weekly SUD CBT group to address criminogenic needs or risk factors that affect recidivism. The group has brought the participants closer together and helps each of them focus on their goal of sobriety.

The goal of sobriety and other treatment courts is to reduce recidivism by providing participants with access to treatment, intensive supervision, and judicial review, for the purpose of maintaining long term recovery from substance use and increase public safety. The four-phase program takes, at minimum, 12 months to complete and the participants are required to participate in treatment, attend recovery support groups, and complete community service, in addition to the court obligations of reporting to probation, reviews with the judge, and testing for drugs and alcohol.
